Course Content

A two day course using state of the art instruments and simulated tissue to give full hands on training to compliment theoretical sessions. Topics include lesion recognition, prep and planning; anticipating and avoiding pitfalls; local anaesthesia, elliptical excisions, lipomata and cysts.

Day two will include a direct observation of procedural skill to enable certification of skills and knowledge.

We cover the whole range of procedures from the additional services to the DES. Cryotherapy with liquid nitrogen, curettage, electrosurgery, shave excision, elliptical excision, blunt dissection of cysts, different suturing techniques for skin closure and ingrowing toenail surgery.

A high tutor to delegate ratio and small group work allows an introduction or fine-tuning of technical skills supported by current published literature and guidance. A review of the current medicolegal landscape highlights the pitfalls to avoid with ease.

Taught by tutors with a background in general practice and led by the education lead for the Association of Surgeons in Primary Care and an expert witness for the MPS, MDU and GMC.

The course is suitable for Primary Care team members, GPs, GP trainees and nurse practitioners.

Tutors

Dr Soon Lim FRCGP
Dr Mia Murray MBBS, MRCP, MRCS
